DEATH TAKES A MOTHER

WHO HAD BLESSED AND GLORIFIED THE HOME LIFE.

Mrs. Margaret G. Valentine, Widow of Dr. Milton Valentine, President of College and Seminary.

Mrs. Margaret Galt Valentine, widow of Dr. Milton Valentine, a former president of the Gettysburg College and the Seminary, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Henry W. Siegrist, in Philadelphia, on last Friday evening, in her 94th year. In May she had an ugly fall and broke her hip—on the day she had planned to return to her Gettysburg home. During the advancing years she had lost her sight, but without complaint, for the joys and blessings of life were the things about which she was concerned. Mrs. Valentine was beloved by a wide circle of friends, to whom she personified an ideal mother, as the poet has expressed it, "the holiest thing alive." Her predominating personality was motherliness, glorifying and blessing the home life and all about her. The funeral was held on Monday afternoon, Dr. A. E. Wagner conducting the services and her grandsons acting as pallbearers. Interment was made in Evergreen Cemetery. She leaves two sons and two daughters, Sterling G. Valentine of Reading; Dr. Milton H. Valentine of Gettysburg; Mrs. Edgar G. Miller and Mrs. Henry Siegrist, of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Virginia Mickley Wolf, daughter of the late Morgan Mickley, and Mary J. Mickley, died at the home of her mother on Springs avenue, Sunday afternoon after a brief illness of apoplexy, aged 50 years, 1 month and 7 days. For twelve years Mrs. Wolf was a saleswoman in the G. W. Weaver & Son's store, but for the past six years she was employed in the J. B. Wineman store, Centre Square. She is survived by her mother and one sister, Mrs. J. B. Wineman, of Gettysburg. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon by Rev. Earl J. Bowman, pastor of St. James Lutheran Church with interment in Evergreen Cemetery.

Harry E. Weaver died at his home in the Eckert apartments, Center Square Monday morning, aged 52 years, 5 months and 22 days. Mr. Weaver was born at Queenstown, Md., and spent the early part of his life there. Twenty-six years ago he moved to Gettysburg. For the past seven years he was employed at the E. H. Forrest Meat Market, York street. He was a member of the Gettysburg Fire Co. for the past fifteen years and a prominent member in the organization. He also was a member of the Improved Order of Red Men, Order of Eagles, and the Knights of Malta. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Bessie Byron, of Centerville, Md., his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Laura Pfeiffer, and one daughter, Miss Grace E. Weaver, at home. One sister, Mrs. Boscum Eaton, of Centerville, Md., and a half-brother, Gilbert Byron, of Wilmington, Del. Funeral services were on Wednesday afternoon by Rev. Earl J. Bowman, pastor of St. James Lutheran Church with interment in Evergreen Cemetery.

Anna F. Brannon, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Brannon, died at the home of her parents rear of Baltimore street, Sunday night aged 6 months and 5 days. She is survived by her parents, one sister, Mary F. Brannon, and one brother, Frederick W. Brannon, both at home. Funeral services Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the home of the parents, conducted by the Rev. Harry Daniels, pastor of the Gettysburg Methodist Episcopal Church. Interment in Evergreen Cemetery.

Frank M. Thau, a well-known Western Maryland engineer died of acute indigestion on Friday of last week in his 48th year. He was born in Baltimore and 25 years ago married Miss Annie M. Jenkins, who survives him with a son, Oscar, of Baltimore and Kathryn at home. The family moved 15 years ago to Hanover. He was a locomotive fireman for a number of years and in 1905 was promoted to be an engineer and was regularly on the York-Gettysburg night freight at the time of his death. He was a member of the Baltimore Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen for the past 22 years. Funeral was on Monday at his home and interment made in a Baltimore cemetery.

Rev. John W. Finkbinder died at Cheyenne, Wyoming. He had passed his 80th birthday on July 4th of this year. He was a native of Chester County, entered Academy here in 1862 and graduated from College in class of 1869 and from the Seminary here three years later and his first pastorate was at Middle town, Pa. in 1873. The same year he married Miss Martha Evelyn Hamilton of near this town who died last February. The latter was a sister of John B. Hamilton of this place.

Mrs. Harriet Baltzley, wife of Samuel Baltzley, of Orrtanna, died suddenly at the Annie M. Warner Hospital Tuesday morning. She was taken ill Sunday evening and brought to the Hospital on Monday. She was aged 67 years, 8 months and 1 day. Her entire family was at the bedside when death came. Mrs. Baltzley was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Lady and was born near Arendtsville. She is survived by her husband and the following sons and daughters, Mrs. Charles Rinehart of Littlestown; Calvin Baltzley of Fairfield, Mrs. W. C. Henze of Hagerstown; Mrs. B. W. Hively of York; Mrs. Luther Wetzel of Orrtanna; Luther Baltzley of Stewartstown and Mrs. J. A. Garrett at home. Three brothers and two sisters survive, Samuel, Henry and George Lady, of Kansas, Mrs. John Ketterman of Arendtsville and Mrs. John Bair of Kansas. Funeral services were held from the home Friday morning with further services in the Orrtanna Methodist Episcopal church conducted by the Rev. Claude S. Heim assisted by the Rev. H. E. Berkey, supply pastor at Flohr's Lutheran Church with interment at Flohr's Cemetery.

Jacob Martin Wehler, of Hanover, died very suddenly Wednesday after a few hours illness from neuralgia of the heart. Mr. Wehler arose about 3 o'clock that morning feeling ill and summoned a physician who did all in his power to relieve him, but death ensued about 8:30 o'clock. His age was 60 years, 5 months and 18 days. He was a son of the late Levi and Catherine Wehler, of New Oxford. He leaves a wife, who was Miss Hattie Busbey, and a son, Charles H. Wehler, of Camden, N. J. He is also survived by four brothers and two sisters: Dr. Chas. E. Wehler, of Hood College, Frederick, Md.; Randolph Wehler, of Westminster, Md.; Milton Wehler, of New Oxford; Samuel Wehler, of Hanover; Mrs. Sarah Wolf, of New Oxford, and Mrs. Andrew Dubbs, of Hanover.

Walter B. Runk, died suddenly from a paralytic stroke at his home, near Schwartz's school house last Friday afternoon. He was aged 59 years, 3 months and 24 days. He was a son of the late Isaiah and Elizabeth Baum Runk, and was married to Miss Cora Shue, of that section, who survives with five children, namely: Clayton Runk and Paul Runk, of Hanover; Robert, of Mt. Pleasant; Ralph and Roy Runk, at home. Also one brother, Oliver Runk, of Black Rock. Mr. Runk was an active member of Hanover Lodge of Moose. Funeral was on Tuesday, services in St. David's (Sherman's) Church, by Rev. E. M. Sando, and interment in St. David's Cemetery.

Mrs. Julia Barker Kump, of Hanover, died last Friday morning at the Harrisburg Hospital from heart trouble, after a five days' illness. Mrs. Kump had been in failing health. Her age was 77 years, 4 months and 29 days. She was a daughter of the late Joseph and Cassia Barker, of Littlestown, and leaves six children: Rev. W. A. Kump of Chambersburg; Mrs. Elsie K. Nace, Joseph R. Kump, and Miss Mary V. Kump, of Hanover; Charles E. Kump, of Bridgeton, N. J., and Mrs. Ira D. Plank, of Gettysburg. She is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Henrietta Yount, of Littlestown, and Mrs. Jennie B. Howard of Haddonfield, N. J. She was taken ill suddenly during an automobile drive last Sunday a week near Harrisburg, and taken to the Harrisburg Hospital. She rallied from the first illness but on Monday was seized with another, which in her weakened condition caused her death. The funeral was on Monday, services by Rev. Dr. G. W. Nicely, and interment in the Hanover Cemetery.

Mrs. Sadie B. Smith, a former citizen of New Oxford, died at the Adams County Home Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock from spasms, aged 70 years. She leaves three children, Mrs. John Tate, of York; Mrs. Bessie O'Connor, and George Smith, of Rainbridge. Mrs. Smith, whose husband died many years ago, spent most of her life in New Oxford. She was removed to the County Home because of ill health about four years ago. The funeral was held Wednesday morning when interment was made on Conewago Chapel Cemetery. Rev. Charles Koch, rector, officiating.

Mrs. Lavinia L. R. Gilbert, wife of Captain Calvin Gilbert, died at her home on Springs Avenue on Thursday afternoon about 80 years of age. Her maiden name was Miss Lavinia L. Rex, a native of this county. She was united in marriage to Captain Gilbert March 12, 1862, while he was in the service of the United States during the Civil War. For many years they made their home in Chambersburg, moving to Gettysburg thirty eight years ago. She has been a devoted wife and mother and held in highest esteem by all who knew her. She was a member of St. James Lutheran Church. The funeral will be on Monday morning, services will be by her pastor, Rev. Earl J. Bowman with interment in the Evergreen Cemetery. She leaves besides her husband two daughters and two sons, Mrs. Minnie Suesseroft, of Chambersburg, Miss Kate Gilbert, Calvin K. Gilbert and William Gilbert of Gettysburg.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holtzworth and son of Altoona are spending several weeks with relatives here.

Fr. Whalen Makes Plan for Parish.

Father W. W. Whalen, of the old Jesuit Mission, near Orrtanna, Adams county, in making a plea for contributions for his church's annual picnic, has the following in a letter he is sending out. "Everybody reads about the cathedrals and big churches. But the small parishes, wide in territory and narrow in souls, and the pastors who give up their lives to such deserving flocks—those people and priests are not so widely advertised. And in America one must advertise, if his cause is to be known. There are so many folks who'd throw a plank to struggling parishes, if they only knew a few hundred souls here at the Old Jesuit Mission have been keeping their church open at a terrific handicap. The Jesuits have left here, but we're still observing the Jesuits' vow of poverty.

"The farmer at present is the most badly treated worker, though the most necessary, in our state. He labors over 12 hours a day. He pays exorbitant rates for what he buys and receives a pittance for what he sells. I know of no class that needs and appreciates religion more than the tiller of the soil. His life tends to make him a pagan. His plow turns up worms and ugly bugs, his home is not beautiful except on the outside where the flowering vines cover the weather-beaten boards. He must have a good wife and a great deal of religion to counteract the disagreeable influences of his work. Every man I can hold on the farm, enjoying rural twilight pleasures away from the glare of city lights—that farmer, producing what the city feeds on, makes me a public benefactor.

"That's why our Old Jesuit Mission is still shedding God's hidden sunshine in struggling, weary hearts. And that's why I think of you to honor you with this appeal. It's a beggar's letter on the brazen face of it. We need outside assistance to keep on existing. The little parishes can without shame beg from the big ones. It's no disgrace to ask for the crumbs from the rich man's table."

Wedding Under Chestnut Tree

McLaughlin—Brenizer—A wedding which took place under a "spreading chestnut tree" on the road between Westminster and Gettysburg on Wednesday of last week was announced Saturday by the principals. Miss Esther Brenizer and Lee McLaughlin, both of Fairfield, were the contracting parties, the knot being tied by the Rev. Ralph Baker, pastor of the Fairfield Lutheran church. Miss Brenizer and Mr. McLaughlin, without taking relatives or friends into their confidence called at the Lutheran parsonage early Wednesday morning, woke Rev. Mr. Baker from sleep and asked him to accompany them to Westminster.

Woodward—Bristow—Monday afternoon at the home of William Woodward, West Middle street, Miss Florence Bristow, daughter of Mrs. Alice M. Bristow, of Philadelphia, and George Allen Woodward, of Orrtanna, were united in marriage by Rev. Harry Daniels, pastor of the Gettysburg Methodist Episcopal Church. The bride was attired in white satin with a small bridal veil. Miss May Woodward, her attendant wore peach blow pink organdy. A dinner for the immediate families of the contracting parties was served following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Woodward after spending a few days in Gettysburg will make their home in Camden, New Jersey, where Mr. Woodward is employed.

Orphanage Anniversary Aug. 30.

The thirteenth anniversary of the organization of the George W. and Agnes Hoffman Orphanage, near Littlestown, will be celebrated Thursday, August 30, and many persons from Reformed and other churches in this section of the county will attend the exercises there at that time.

Dedication of several new additions to the grounds and buildings will be a feature of the occasion, among them being the flag staff. A program will be presented by the children of the home as has been the custom in previous years.

S. S. County Convention

The annual Sunday School convention of Adams county will be held in St. James Lutheran church, Gettysburg Wednesday and Thursday August 29th and 30th.

The speaker on Wednesday evening will be Dr. Forest E. Dager, of Philadelphia, and Dr. Isaac T. Headland, of Ohio, a world famous Sunday School man, will make the address on Thursday evening. Walter Myers, the State general secretary and Miss Emma G. Lemen, superintendent of the children's division, will be present during the entire convention.

Chrystal Brown of Paterson, N. J., will be the music leader and will give some very helpful talks on "Music in the Sunday School."

—Mrs. Bernard Stock and sons have returned from a trip to Philadelphia. They were accompanied by James Stock Jr., of that city who will visit here.

—Mrs. John M. Warner has returned to her home on Baltimore street, after spending the past few weeks as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harman in Shippensburg.

LAST HONORS TO THE DEAD

STATE FUNERAL OF PRESIDENT HARDING ON WEDNESDAY IN WASHINGTON.

Solemn Cortage to Marion, Ohio, Where the Body of the Dead President will be Buried.

The funeral train bearing the body of President Warren G. Harding from San Francisco, where he died, to Washington, arrived in the latter city on Wednesday. The body was taken to the White House and the solemn spectacle of a great State funeral was held on Wednesday. General Pershing was Grand Marshal of the procession, at the request of President Coolidge.

Ten thousand children, recruited from the municipal playgrounds of Washington paid reverent tribute to the President as his procession passed from the White House to the Capitol. They were stationed in front of the municipal buildings and strewed the street with flowers as the cortege passed.

Section one was made up of the Military escort, the Army band, and representation of the cavalry, artillery, infantry, engineers, navy and National Guard. Section two was the Civic procession with representatives of the Senate and House. Section three was headed by President Coolidge, with Chief Justice and former President Taft and former President Wilson next in line and following the Foreign Ambassadors came representatives of every branch of the government and many organizations.

When the procession reached the Capitol the body was carried into the rotunda of the Capitol and a guard of honor stationed.

The full program of the exercises at the Capitol was as follows:

Invocation by Dr. A. Freeman Anderson, assistant pastor of Calvary Baptist Church where President Harding worshipped.

"Lead, Kindly Light," by the male quartet of the Cavalry Baptist Church.

Scripture selections: Twenty-third Psalm; Micah, vi. 8; Revelations, xii. 1-5.

Prayer by Dr. James Shera Montgomery, Chaplain of the House of Representatives.

Hymn, "Nearer My God, to Thee," by the quartet.

Benediction by Dr. Anderson.

Between 6 and 7 o'clock Wednesday evening the body of President Harding was removed from the Capitol as a salute of twenty one guns were fired and was taken to the train for the journey to Marion, Ohio. The funeral train was in two parts. The one with the body, contained Mrs. Harding and all those who had gone with the dead President to Alaska and the second train contained President Coolidge and the Government party. Marion was reached Thursday morning. The body was taken to the Harding home and the funeral services took place at three o'clock Friday afternoon. The plain and simple service conducted at the vault in the "City of the Dead" was:

Hymn—"Lead Kindly Light," by Trinity Baptist Church choir.

Reading of the Scriptures—The Rev. George M. Landis, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church.

Prayer—Dr. Jesse Swank, pastor of Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church.

Hymn—"Nearer, My God, to Thee."

Benediction—The Rev. George M. Landis, Rev. Landis had been the President's pastor at Marion and Rev. Swank a personal friend.

The body was placed in the receiving vault at the Cemetery and will be held there pending the erection of a mausoleum to receive it, and a guard was stationed which will be maintained for the customary period of six months.

Proclamation

By the President of the United States of America.

A Proclamation

In the inscrutable wisdom of Divine Providence, Warren Gamaliel Harding, twenty-ninth President of the United States, has been taken from us. The nation has lost a wise and enlightened statesman and the American people a true friend and counselor, whose whole public life was inspired with the desire to promote the best interests of the United States and the welfare of all its citizens. His private life was marked by gentleness and brotherly sympathy and by the charm of his personality he made friends of all who came in contact with him.

It is meet that the deep grief which fills the hearts of the American people should find fitting expression.

Now therefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States of America do appoint Friday next August 10, to the day on which the body of the dead President will be laid in its last earthly resting place, as a day of mourning and prayer throughout the United States. I earnestly recommend the people to assemble on that day in their respective places of Divine worship, there to bow down in submission to the will of Almighty God, and to pay out of full heart the homage and love and reverence to the memory of the great and good

PERSONAL POINTS OF VIEW

COMINGS AND GOINGS INTO AND OUT OF THE TOWN.

The Fairchild Donation

By JANE OSBORN

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Miss Monroe—I say, Miss Monroe!" George Fairchild was impatient as he stood at the threshold of his office about to depart for a luncheon at a business men's club.

"H'm?" absently hinted Miss Monroe, looking up from a folder that was apparently more absorbing than her employer at the moment.

"My, that must be interesting," George Fairchild said a little testily. "Listen, please, to what I have to say, and don't forget. I don't expect to be back until three or four. In the meantime some boys will come over from the Boys' Club. They are fitting up their new headquarters and they've made an appeal for old furniture and pictures and things. No one will be home at the house—my aunt is still at the shore and it's Hannah's day out."

"I went over things last night in my room and I put some things in the hall between the bedroom and my study. They are things that are pretty battered and I'll never want them again. Glad to get rid of them, in fact."

"In the other hall, from the study to the main corridor, there are some things to go to the repair man. Here's the key to the house, and if the repair man rings up and says he wants the things, lock up here and go over and show him what to take—and when the boys come with a truck take them along and show them their things. That's perfectly clear, isn't it, Miss Monroe?"

"Um-hum," said Miss Monroe with lagging attention as she took the keys offered by her employer.

"What's got into you?" asked George. "Ever since I've been running for mayor you've seemed so absent-minded—just when I need your help and sympathy most." There seemed to be something of boyish disappointment in this complaint—not quite in part with Mr. Fairchild's relations as employer. But if Laura Monroe noticed it she did not show it.

"Maybe it's the weather," offered Laura.

"You're sure you understand and you won't forget the keys?"

"I understand all right," was Laura's rejoinder, and as George Fairchild closed the door she delved even deeper into the map that unfolded from a blue leather cover.

The map that proved so absorbing showed the various electoral divisions and ward boundaries of the city, with the voting population of each section numbered in by hand. Laura had borrowed it from a lawyer friend of Mr. Fairchild, who supposed it was George who had asked for it.

And now Laura was doing what Fairchild had avoided doing all along—going over the ground of the city step by step—figuring out to a nicety the votes that would be cast in each district for her employer.

She laid hands on paper and pencil beside her desk, drew a rough little diagram, jotting down some figures, did some lightning calculation in her active young brain, and then sat musing with the map open in her lap. She was not entirely optimistic.

Then the door opened and two young boys of sixteen or so shambled in, awkwardly donning caps and edging to the wall before speaking.

"Mr. Fairchild said he had something for us," they said.

"We're out with a truck—should we go over to his house to get them?" Laura explained that she would go with them.

"You don't want to—to sit in the truck with us, do you?" grinned one of the boys. "It's just an old truck—you know—without any seats. Us boys are just sitting on the bottom."

"Of course I want to go with you," said Laura with a smile. "You wouldn't want me to walk, would you? And if I start to slip out, I guess you boys can manage to hold me in?"

"Sure thing," "You bet," from the two boys.

"Mr. Fairchild is so interested in your club," Laura fibbed on the trip to the old Fairchild homestead on the outskirts of the city. "He was telling me about your plans—wants to come around and visit you some night. After he's mayor maybe you'll want to have him come and make a speech."

"He'll never be mayor," was the verdict of the youngest boy, looking very wise. "He's all right—but he isn't pulling any votes in the Sixth ward or in the Third. Us fellows know. I'm sorry, if he's your boss, but honest, isn't he stuck up? Now, he wouldn't do a thing like this—I mean riding over in this truck with us."

"It's just exactly what he would have done," lied Laura. "Why, he's the most un-stuck-up person I know—and you can just tell those men up in the Sixth and Third wards that I said so. I guess the poor girl that has to work for him must know as well as any one."

Laura deftly used the keys at the Fairchild door and led the gang of four boys—they would need all hands to move the things—up the wide old stairs. She made a quick inspection of the collection of furniture in the two passages.

"If there's anything in that bunch there that you want," she said, pointing to the group that Mr. Fairchild had picked out for his donation, "you can have it, but it's mostly rubbish. But here are some nice pieces—this library table and these easy chairs and this big reading lamp and this lounge—and—and, you, he said to let you take this set of Dickens. If you like—do you boys like Dickens?"

"Gosh, do we!" said one of the boys. "Say, we'll eat that alive. Gee, but this is swell furniture. Fairchild is some prince—here, boys, let's give three cheers for Fairchild, the future mayor!"

And the lofty ceilings of the old mansion resounded with the quavering but lusty cheers from the young quartet.

Laura detained the boys after their last trip upstairs. "Come on into the pantry," she said. "Mr. Fairchild said there was a cake or something. The cook's out, but he had her leave it for you—thought maybe you'd be hungry."

Greatly to Laura's relief she found a freshly made chocolate cake in the pantry—made, to be sure, for George and some political cronies he expected after dinner—but Laura cut into it bravely and then poured out four glasses of milk from a quart she found in the refrigerator.

"Come on, let's sit down in the dining room and have a real spread," she suggested and when they had assembled she lifted her glass of water—there wasn't milk enough to go generously around—and proposed a toast to her employer: "The man who isn't stuck up," and this refrain echoed through the rooms of the old house.

Laura let the boys out of the house and then remained only long enough to wash the dishes and put the dining room to rights. She had never been inside the Fairchild house before and she was tempted to make a little tour of inspection, but she was also eager to be back in the office.

She had just time to take her place at her desk and to settle back comfortably in her chair when her employer returned.

"The boys came," she said, "and, goodness me, I think I may have made a mistake. Did you say to give them the things in the corridor between the main hall and the library?"

"Great Scott, no!"

"Didn't you say something about giving them that set of Dickens?"

"Lord, no—those boys wouldn't have any use for Dickens."

"The boys that I saw would—and, oh, Mr. Fairchild," said Laura with a little tremble in her voice. "I am so ashamed of myself. I gave them the wrong things. It was all my fault. But they were so appreciative—and they gave three cheers for Fairchild—the future mayor—the man who isn't stuck up. I'm sorry—I'll pay for the furniture and books."

"Those boys come from the Sixth and Third wards," said Fairchild. "They aren't cheering for me. Those wards are going against me, sure thing. That's why I didn't want to waste any really good furniture on that club house of theirs. Don't you see, Miss Monroe?"

Laura let her pretty head hang. Then a large tear trickled down one cheek. George sprang to her side, hesitated a moment, then laid a strong arm on her shoulder.

"Miss Monroe, Laura—whatever you did is all right. Oh, I can't keep it from you any longer. I love you—that's what makes it so hard, your indifference and your inattention to everything I say. If you cared for me at all, you would be interested. Laura, are you absent-minded because you're thinking of some one else?"

Laura did not answer. She quickly wiped the tears away and straightened her shoulders.

"I'm sorry," she said. "But you mustn't talk that way now—not until after the election. Meantime just for my sake, don't tell anyone it was my mistake about your donation to the boys. I liked them so much—of course, I don't understand politics, but I know they are all your friends."

"They're not voters," said Fairchild conclusively.

"No, but their fathers are—and more than that their mothers are," said Laura stoutly. But George only smiled incredulously.

Then election came and Fairchild, "Fairchild, who was never stuck up," "Fairchild, the working boys' best friend," was elected.

He had a phenomenal victory in the Sixth and Third wards. No one of his party had ever made a showing in that section and it was that fact, said everyone, that swung the election away from his influential opponent.

The next day George and Laura met as usual in the office. Both were very tired, but they were not late.

"You know, I've been thinking," said George. "I've been wondering, Laura, whether maybe after all you aren't a better politician than I. I owe this whole victory to you—and now you've got to marry me before I go into office, to show me how to live up to the fine reputation you've given me."

And Laura said she would.

Way It Goes.

"Hear you had in an efficiency expert?"

"Yep."

"What does an efficiency expert do?"

"Well, he comes in and looks your establishment over. Then, for instance, if you have a lot of marbles that won't move he tells you to bore 'em, string 'em and sell 'em for beads."

—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Not So Shy.

"She was so shy and diffident that I hesitated to ask her for a kiss."

"Well?"

"Her reply startled me."

"And that was?"

"The effect that I must make it known that her mother was sleeping around."

—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A BIT OF ADVICE.

First—Don't Delay. Second—Don't Experiment.

If you suffer from backache; headaches or dizzy spells; if you rest poorly and are languid in the morning; if the kidney secretions are irregular and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. In such cases the kidneys often need help.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially prepared for kidney trouble. They are recommended by thousands. Can Gettysburg residents desire more convincing proof of their effectiveness than the statement of a Gettysburg citizen who has used them and willingly testifies to their worth?

Ask your neighbor.

J. J. Eiker, prop. taxi business, 226 N. Stratton St. Gettysburg, says: "I had a lot of kidney trouble which came on through a cold. When lying in bed, my back would hurt badly and every time I made a turn, a sharp, jabbing pain caught me in my back. During the day there was a constant soreness and pain in my back which caused more than a little trouble. My kidneys were inactive and I knew they were affected because the secretions were unnatural in color. I had the right medicine all right when I took Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a box of this remedy and it helped me. A few boxes put my back in the best of shape and restored my kidneys to a normal condition again."
